Connecticut Town Electrons.—Returns are received from eighty-two towns in Connections, out of 110, which voted on Monday. The Republicans have carried 61, and Opposition 21 of them. The Republicans have gained 14, and the Opposition has gained 1—Haddam—which gives always 100 Looo Poco majority. It is noticeable, says the New Haven Journal, that "while we have retained all the towns we won last year, we have gained a large number of Democratic atrongholds, in spite of the Democratic atrongholds, in spite of the Opposition, and where we have not entirely succeeded, we have reduced the Democratic majorities to a merely nominal figure."

ROCK COUNTY-LEGISLATIVE NOMINA-TIOKS. - The Republicans of the 17th Senate District, (north half of Rock County,) have nominated Ezza A. FOOTE, of Center, as their candidate for State Senator. Mr. FOOTE is an old resident of the County; one of the "pioneers" of Wisconsin; a man of sound sense, undaunted integrity and staunch Republican principles.

The Republicans of Janesville City have nominated, for Assembly, ALEXANDER GEAnam of that like . Mr. GRAHAM has had ex. perience in legislation, and will render good service to the State, besides doing credit to himself and to his constituents.

It is now announced that the momentous question has at length been solved. The N. Y. You both know what passed at the time you called on the nominations made at Battimore, and that I declined to pledge myself to support either Mr. Breckinridge or Mr. Deuglas, and among other things said that I did not consider either the regular nominace of the party. There were other things said as you may recollect.

Afterwards in a conversation with Mr. J. C. Mason, I stated to him the substance of this conversation, and according to my re-collection said, under the circumstances that I would have felt bound to have voted for the nominee of the party had one been made, but that the division must result in the election of Lincoln, and that I had no heart for the contest. A good deal more was said by Mr. Mason and probably more by my-self, but I made no reflection on either Mr. Breckinridge or Mr. Douglas, except to regret that the two nominations had been Neither conversation was meant for the Next he spoke in English, and appealed to the voters to support the whole Republican ticket, and that all the nominees were determined to sink or swim together; that they will not persuade the people to vote for this or that candidate, but to vote the whole Republican ticket from Lincoln and HAMLIN to the last on the ticket.

Three times three were given for our next Clerk, Jous F. Portsa and the rest of the candidates.

Mr. S. H. Maurin was called for, and

Mr. E. G. HAYDEN, after repeated calls, was introduced by the Chair. He said that he had heard there was some who thought that he was disappointed in not getting the nomination for Clerk of the Court; but he assured the meeting that his arder for the Republican cause was not depending on a nomination for any office whatever; he claimed to be a Republican-Democral; yes, He proved the principles of the Democrata then and of the Republicans now, to be identical.

The passenger train going West had the brakes applied in time to save the lives of the passengers. The brakeman, named SHERMAN, acted in a heroic manner, so we unerstand, and it was probably owing to his conduct that the accident was not more serious. FOUR WEEKS TO ELECTION! REPUBLICANS! MAKE READY!

FOR CORONER, JOHN FRENCH.

This DAY POUR WEEKS the People of the United States are to vote for the Chief-Magistrate to whose care the honor and interests of the country are to be entrusted for the ensuing four years. The issues involved in the contest are familiar as household words to the great mass of electors. They have been discussed in Congress, in the press, in political club-rooms, on the stump and in the workshops, factories, stores and dwellings of the people, during the past six years. And as the discussion has proceeded. steadily and surely has the Republican party gained in numbers, in discipline and in determination, notil now it has arrived on the ere of a great contest, upon which it enters with a full consciousness of its strength, entire faith in the merits of its cause, and and ombling confidence of a gloafous triumph.

No man can survey the political arena at this eventful moment, without being precisaly struck with the contrast presented by the political forces which now stand arrayed in opposition to each other. On the one hand is the REPUBLICAN PARTY, compact, united and exultant; led by men who, for character, capacity, patriolism and public worth, stand unchallenged; and proclaiming doctrines, the truth of which no Democratic opponent can successfully gainsay.—
On the other hand, are three political factions, or fragments of parties; each led by different chiefs, each announcing different principles, and each invoking for itself the confidence and suffrages of the People, as the only party fit to be trusted with the administration of our National affairs. But as snocharacter, capacity, patriotism and public istration of our National affairs. But as sucistration of our National affairs. But as suc-cess is not possible for either the Douglas, the Berckinghous, or the Bell men, against comps affers above, and Messrs. Bell and the embattled phalanx and irresistible adthe embattled pullaux and irresistible advance of the Republicans, we hear, on every side, propositions to "fuse" and urgent appeals for "union." Union for what? Not to elect Mr. Douglas; not to elect Mr. Bellumor to likely that the concern will have to "igo into liquidation" before the middle of November 1. BRECKINDIDGE; not to elect Mr. Bell-for la to elect Mr. Bucktribles; not to elect Mr. Bucktribles; no one of these things is possible. But to prevent an election by the people and transfer the choice of President to their Representatives in Congress.

This is now the "one idea" of the sham Demogracy. They have no other hope and purpose, no other object. Not one of the leaders assumes to know or ventures to predict what will be the result of a general soramble for the Presidency in the House of Representatives: On this point they are ed or cheated, or frightened, or bribed into a Congressional, instead of a popular election of a President of the United States, then these political tricksters and thimble riggers will appear in force in the new field, so much better adapted to the exercise of their admitted talent for "bargains and corruption."

We have no fears that the People of the United States can be led astray by any such the field states can be led astray by any such the field states are some to the proper to the proper tarray of purties that in view of the present array of purties that in view of the present array of purties.

in a Territorial condition, and a large per-tion of that country including Kanasa and Nebraska, has remained in that condition for more than half a century. It assetls, with violence, the freedom of speech and the press and violates the sanctity of the Post Office, because it is either conscious of guilt, and therefore straid to face the truth, or is too kimid and weak to meet and put down error and fulsehood.

It has not learned what Jenerson taught— "error may be saf-ly tolerated when truth is left free to combat it." But in blind zeal for the defense of opinions and ideas, in themselves indefensible, it strikes boldly at those fundamentall rights upon which all our hopes of civil and religious liberty are based—free opinion, free apsech, free locomotion, and a free press.

based—free opinion, free speech, free locomotion, and a free press.

I have long believed that a party whose character is masked by so many disqualifying viocs, is unit to rule a free people; and, therefore, it was my earnest wish to see all the elements of opposition brought into harmonious action for its overthrow, by the election to the Presidency of some safe and patriotic man, untainted with the habitual viess of that dangerous party.

My efforts in that direction have not only been unsuccessful, but a result exactly apporeally a true maxim, as applied to the labor-ers, still I think there is another aphorism quite as true and for more beneficent, especially in a new country, that is, Labor sught to own its Land.

The main objections urged against the election of Mr. Lincoln are not directed against him personally, for it is only a just to but to his personal character that no one imputes to him evil designs against the country, nor imagines that when he becomes President ha will attempt any great wrong to the nation, or any section of it. But cuntacticians suggest, and some timid patriots fear, that certain truculent politici-aus in the South will seise upon Lincolu's election as a pretext for rising in rebellion to put down a President constitutionally and put down a President constitutionally and lawfully chosen.

If you have any such idle feers, I beg you to dismise them at once, lest they lead you to the gross injustice of imputing to the Southern States, or even to the body of Southern Democrats, the purpose to commit a orime at once so wicked and so foolish.

We all length there was in the South We all know that there are in the South a few self-conceited egotists, who, whenever they find the votes and the arguments all against them, appeal to our force, by threats of ind-finite mischief-hoping to win a tri-umph over justice, reason, and the public borhoods; and then what human power could prevent the horrors of a servile war? However much I may differ from many of our Southern brethren upon certain points of governmental policy. I rely upon their wisdom and patriotism to put down the few desperadoes among them, and thus prevent the initial crime which, it allowed to be successfully committed, would imperit the world's last hope of Republican freedom, and would not fall to draw in its train the complicated horrors of civil, social, and servile war. borhoods; and then what human power

I rely, I say, confidently upon the virtue and patriotism of Southern people; but even if these were wanting, I would still rely upon the weight remain and common sense, for if these were wanting, I would still rely upon their plain reason and common sense, for none but mad men would teach their slaves, by their own bad example, how to rise, in bloody rebellion against lawful authority.

Knowing our earnest devotion to the Union, and our willingness to make great sacrilless to preserve it, the plan of intimidation is still pursued, and appeals are still made to our lears, and men do it who ought to know better, and do know better, but acting upon the maxim of moral philosophy, as taught in the Court of King Charles the Second, they assume as true that:

Second, they assume as true that:

office harders—the le-dears of referral bounty; the exponents of federal bounty; the exponents of federal bounty; the sapiratory and for public employment; the classrooms begans at the gates of the National Transcry—these and anch as these may find, in the hope of success, a strong incentive to and spology for "Fasion," but the idea is repulsive to the great mass of sincers and independent men, of all parties, and will only result in bringing upon its perpetuators.

In Wisconsir, the course is clear and the daily of the Bepublicans a plain one. An easy victory is within our grasp; but lat us not, therefore, neglect the means, or omit the effort, to make that victory decisive.

But four works remain to us for the measurement of the course of the cou union, no party can long survive.

And in this instance, the process of disintegration seems already to have begun; for in New York the "American party" has lately held its own separate State Council, and in Firginia, meetings of the people have

It wantonly repealed the Missouri Compromise, which had been the bond of peace for one-third of a century; and it destroyed for one-third of a century; and it destroyed the compromise of 1850, under which the nation rested in quietness and peace.
